WERK-BOOKS 2.0 ON THE WAY

As promised, the search for a new Werk-Books package has begun in earnest as of last Thursday. When the package has been found and tested, it is hoped that it will allow these features over and above Werk-Books 1.5 and 1.6 –

- No limits to pages
- More than one link option in a book
- Chapter Jump feature (along with the current Page Jump)

The UCPS hopes to have this new package ready by this Summer. Thank you! ~fin~

NEW VENDOR PROJECT UCPS SEEKS WORKERS

The UCPS has begun the search for a simple open-source vendor for its products. A vendor has been found, and it is being tested at the Werks from the Iron Road store in Eur'pa Wulfback.

It is hoped that the vendor being tested will form the core of a cat'log vendor later this year. This new vendor allows users to peruse products by the names of the people who made them - among other features. Products chosen are bought from the Market Place. ~ fin

I am looking to build up my workers at the UCPS. These workers would work at the UCPS Office in New Babbage at set times during the week.

These workers would answer questions about the office. We would also discuss ways to improve mail service for the Steamlands.

As part of the mail service, my Ghost would also help workers learn scripting (if needed). Clockworks only, please. Thank you! ~ fin

Sanc'chree Notes

WORLD BOOK DAY

On April 23, the Sanc'chree will debut Nika Thought-werk's next book in honor of Riven Homewood. If you wish to also debut a book on this day – or if you have questions - please reach out to N. Thought-werk and ask.

Nika's first book – “Do Clockworks Dream of Gear-Toothed Sheep?” will be offered for free in a sample version (the first three chapters). Thank you!

Book Reviews In The News

Starting last Monday, Werks from the Iron Road lists book and story reviews. The first story listed is a review of Lori Alden Holuta's first story published. The review this Monday will be of 'Legend of the Eng'neer.' The month will finish with reviews of Ms. Holuta's other stories so far. If you have a story you wish reviewed, please ask via IM? Thank you!

Letters From My Mailbox

Dear Nika:

What will your next story be about? I'm hungry.

Signed,

Waiting for Entrails

Dear Waiting,

That is a good question. It has been four years since I told the story to E.P. – and I am still waiting for her to do the pictures. Clockworks can't draw, you see? Still, the book will be about me! What else should it be about? Postage is in it, too. And 'Nana Sundae. And Meri (poor Meri). And Ian. And trees. A very special tree – with a little touch of magic to it. I like magic trees. Don't you?

Most Sincere I Remain,

Nika

News To Me

Mad Science Ball 18xx

Last night, the Wolfbacks held their newest Mad Science Ball. There was a deathray (that turned people into bones for real) and music by Tao. In all, there were so many people I could not see them all – because my eyes are bad. If you were not there but want to be next year, IM Tao Mist-walker? Thank you!

Postage Stamps Proceeds!

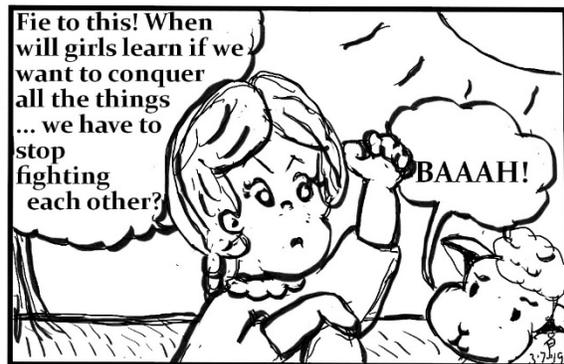

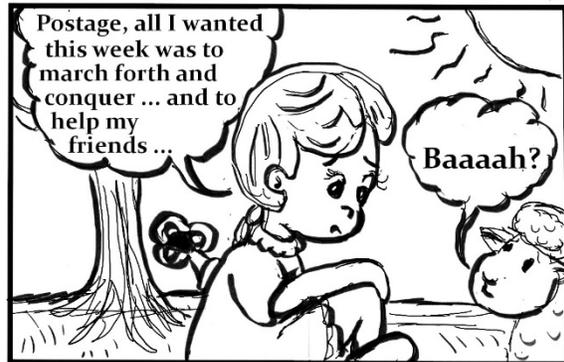

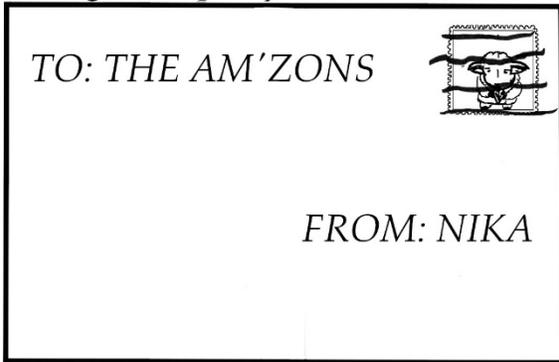

The second strip for Postage Stamps was published March 15, 18xx. I will have a new strip every Friday here:

Choosing 'Postage Stamps' at werksfromtheironroad.com goes there, too! ~fin
