FANT'SY FAIRE SPECIAL ISSUE

Dragons and demons and elves galore! Devils and pixies, fauns, and what's more – Poems to be had, and role-playing, too. Questing and resting and races for cures. Music and dancing, both are assured. This issue is special, as you will soon see. This issue's for Fant'sy Faire 2019. If you use the menu, you will find the way – to fun and good friends any time of the day. Fant'sy Faire, for those that don't know, is a major event to raise funds for Relay for Life every year – and it is going on now until May 5, 18xx. You can find the calendar of events by choosing the site option or webpage option from this news-letter's menu. Thank you, and have fun! ~ fin

RELAY FOR LIFE: A QUEST AGAINST CANCER

Thirty-four years ago, a lone man chose to go on a quest. He sought not to slay a dragon or rescue a kingdom or travel to a distant land in search of riches. No, the man chose not to do any of these things.

The man chose to walk in a circle. Again. And again. And again. He did this for an entire day. Why?

You see, the man was a doctor.

He hoped, by walking and running in a circle for a whole day, that he could get people to stop and notice – and give money to their local cancer societies to help fight cancer.

Today, this man's quest has become Relay for Life. In the spirit of his fight against cancer, every year, beings of all sizes, shapes, genders, colors, and creeds take up his quest – in a grand number of ways and places. Heroes choose to make a change in the world for the better. ### Tall Tales & Fant'sy Faire! NaPoWriMo

Tall Tales and Outright Lies, the renowned author gathering hosted by Miss Ceejay Writer, will have a special event at Fant'sy Faire tonight (April 20) from 6:30 pm at the Troll's Mouth. You can find your way to it by using the cal'ndar and landmark in this issue.

Thank you! ~ fin

Did you know April is Nash'nal Poe'tree Writing Month?

Neither did I! Now, we do. Every day over the course of Fant'sy Faire, there is a poe'tree writing event planned. You can get to the event by looking at the cal'ndar or and using the landmark that is part of this news-letter.

Thank you! ~ fin

Letters From My Mailbox

Dear Nika:

Are you one of the people that works to put on Fant'sy Faire? Also, why all the focus on the book and poem events in this news-letter?

Signed,

Question Mark

Dear Mister Mark:

I am not a part of Fant'sy Faire at all (though the people behind Lit-Fest let me speak there last night about my next book). I would like to add more to this issue – but I am the only writer for this news-letter ... and have you SEEN all that is scheduled for Fant'sy Faire? You haven't? Then, why don't you check out the page and calendar that are part of this news-letter? Thank you!

Most Sincere I Remain,

Nika

News To Me

Children Rule!

Kids sometimes get a REALLY bad rap in certain realms. One person that is trying to build events (and products) for kids so they feel welcome is Loki El'yot. Find out about a special event Loki has planned for kids at Fant'sy Faire 2019 here: <http://www.lokieliot.com/blog/?p=3500>

Thank you! ~ fin

Book Sample Just For You!

A sample of The Clockwork's Orange: Tales of the Robot Nika, Volume Two is posted for any that might wish to read it. It may be found at: <https://werksfromtheironroad.com/nikas-bazaar-books/> attached to a post from April 19. As well, a new chapter of the Gas-Lit Garden should post by late tonight. ~ fin
